WORKING HANDS

The students of CHSN are constantly working to achieve the high standards of becoming professional nurses. At the end of three years the graduates find out that the work was well worth it and are proud to be graduates of Charity Hospital School of Nursing.

MEDICAL-SURGICAL NURSING II

Medical-Surgical Nursing II is a twelve-semester hour senior level course that focuses on the care of the acutely ill patient and/or those with complex medical-surgical problems. The utilization of leadership and management principles is stressed. Students learn to care for individuals and groups of patients based upon priorities of care. Pathophysiology is stressed with the students expected to correlate the varied complex problems, nursing care, medications and lab values. They are expected to know the rationale behind what they are doing. Theory class covers a variety of subjects and is incorporated into clinical experiences.

In clinical experience, the students care for patients in S.I.C.U. or M.I.C.U. Each learns to look beyond the machinery and care for the person who is ill. The experience in neuro-surgery reiterates the complexity of man and his nervous system. Many of the patients here are young motor vehicle accident victims; caring for them often leads students to a realization of the transiencies of life. E.R. experience is a brief look into the immediate care needed to save lives and alleviate suffering; the student becomes aware of the importance of physical assessment. The Cancer Research Unit provides an area in which to give physiological and psychological care to patients who are fighting a potential killer. Again, feelings about death, and life, are confronted. Eight weeks of team nursing provide the students with some "reality shock" before graduation. They learn the right and wrong way to manage the care of a group of patients and, just as importantly, the management of the people with whom they are working. Organizational skills are developed during team nursing.

By the completion of Medical-Surgical Nursing II, it is hoped that each student will better understand his or her own strengths and weaknesses and will firmly believe that a nurse can never stop learning and never stop caring.

COMMUNITY-PSYCHIATRIC NURSING

Community-Psychiatric Nursing is a 12 credit hour course offered in the third year of the curriculum to further the development of the student toward a beginning level of professional nursing practice. The theory and nursing experience of community nursing and psychiatric nursing are offered concurrently.

The major focus of community nursing is the role of the nurse in health care systems other than in-patient hospital settings. Emphasis is placed on understanding the role of the nurse in a team approach to health care in the community including preventive and follow-up nursing care. Experience includes planning and implementing nursing care for patients and families in outpatient clinics, patients' homes, health centers and other community agencies.

The psychiatric nursing component focuses on establishing therapeutic nurse-patient relationships, with individuals and small groups of patients. Emphasis is placed on refining the communication and interpersonal relationship skills, on understanding behavior — both normal and disturbed — and on implementing the role of the nurse in psychiatric care.

MATERNAL-CHILD NURSING

Maternal Child Nursing is a twelve credit hour junior course offering concurrent theory and nursing experience in maternity and pediatric nursing. It is designed to assist the student to participate in his educational process by acquiring knowledge of maternal-child care and specific disease entities; assessing, planning, implementing and evaluating nursing care in these specific areas. Clinical experience consists of giving guided nursing care to individual patients and their families. Students have direct contact with mothers, children, and families through clinics, hospitals, and other health agencies. The two-day clinical experience at Lakeside provides the students with the opportunity to observe the role of the father or other family members in a family-centered setting. The two-day clinical experience at volunteers of America, during the Pediatric rotation provides the students with an opportunity to observe and relate to well children outside of the hospital setting. Throughout their clinical experience they have the opportunity for helping in planning for continuity of nursing care for families, including the community aspects. During their clinical experience, they are helped to gain beginning skills in health teaching for expectant mothers and young adolescents.

MEDICAL-SURGICAL NURSING I

Medical-Surgical I consists of theory and nursing experiences. The focus of the course is on understanding the physiological and psychological adaptive processes involved when the person is faced with illness and hospitalization, and the nurse's role in facilitating adaptation to these experiences. Emphasis is placed upon learning to provide physical and emotional support necessary to help the patient cope with his experiences.

INTRO. TO MED.-SURG. NURSING

Intro. to Med.-Surg. is a six credit hour course offered the second semester of the freshman year. Each student spends two mornings a week in the clinical area and three hours per week in class. Clinical experience is quite varied. Different types of experiences are provided: planned laboratory experiences; one week is spent in Minor Admit which is primarily an out patient setting; one clinical day is also devoted to a workshop which emphasizes the group method of instruction; and to further enhance learning, students rotate wards at mid-semester. Concepts discussed in lecture are implemented clinically, yet in pre-conference patient's diagnosis and nursing care is a point of emphasis.

Skills introduced in the course include medication administration, wound care, IV therapy (hanging bags, observation and regulations of fluid, and changing IV tubing), catheterization, irrigation of tubes, gavage and suctioning.

At the end of this course those students who are successful will be prepared to enter Junior nursing courses, provided other requirements are met.

INTRO. TO NURSING

Intro. to Nursing is a four credit hour course offering fifty-four hours of theory and sixty-four hours of nursing experience and pre and post conferences. The student spends one day a week in the clinical area where he/she is introduced to basic nursing knowledge and skills necessary to care for a non-critically ill patient. Several medical-surgical units at Charity Hospital are utilized for clinical experience. The theoretical concepts introduced include the following: nurse-patient relationship, therapeutic communication, health and illness, medical asepsis, nursing process, vital signs, Erickson's stages of man, Maslow's hierarchy of needs, stress and anxiety, normal aging, legal aspects, death and dying, and community health care facilities. Nursing skills introduced include handwashing, body mechanics, AM care, assessment, charting, catheter and perineal care, enema administration, cardiopulmonary resuscitation, and transcription of doctor's treatment orders. Also, by the end of the semester, the student has completed a process recording, a formal teaching plan and several nursing histories and care plans.
